LEONA OF ATHENS.

The new tragedy, under this title, from the pen of Mrs. Drake, of Cincinnati, is highly spoken of by the editors of that city. The Daily Gazette furnishes some extracts, which we subjoin, with the comments of the editor. The first is Leona's answer to the King's threats of death in the Tribunal.

Die! I know that I shall die— It is my only comfort! In that magic word Light dawns upon my soul, and bright-winged Hope Comes like a smiling Seraph crowned with glory! The long, long-dreary day of toil Is drawing to a close, the wished-for leave to die Has come upon my heart,—peace, like a dove Crossing the troubled waters of the deep Points to another and a better world, Where sigh shall cease, and sorrow be no more! Die! A few years earlier—a few years later, Sudden or slow—it is but death at last!

This is poetry—and the first sort—a specimen of Leona's wild and terrible despair, would not be unworthily classed with the Medea of Euripides.

What voice shall dare to speak of comfort now? Will not earth swallow me, will not Heaven strike me?

Air, water, fire—burn, drown or smother me? No way to live, yet no way to die! Have all The elements conspired to curse me with a life Poisonous as Plague and blacker than despair? Now thou Leona, thou crest and desperate wretch, Where are thy palaces, thy thrones and gems? Here—here upon this damp cold ground, I find at once my empire and my grave! (Falls.)

Were we to offer even to name all the beauties of the clancier, we should swell our article beyond our present limits;—but as a regular review of it will appear after its production, we now confine ourselves to one or two selections from the magnificent character of Harmonious.—This is decidedly the finest effort of the authoress—dignity, power, pathos, a bold and beautiful philosophy is in every line of his speaking.—He returns from banishment and is welcomed by the shouts of the people.

They shout to hear thy name recalled Who shouted loudest for my banishment! How vain and vanishing a thing is public fame! Like the bright glory thrown upon the wave "Thy mighty in the distance;—but when grasped Has melted into bubbles! Oh! Athens—Athens! Thou mighty cradle of a future glory— Thou star of promise to a wonderful day!— Thou mortal to a race of God-like men— Most tyrant despots tread thy classic earth, And chain thy freeborn sons in slavery! There stands the royal palace! there the casket Of that polluted gem, which once was richer than earth's most gorgeous diadems! Leona! Oh! with that name comes rushing over my heart The softened tenderness of happier days! When thou wert fair as christening snow— True as the fire which burns at Vesta's altar— Pure as the steam which girdles Dian's temple! Fallen as thou art, I could weep tears of blood Upon thy faded glory! Leona, I meet thee once again— But not as erst with joy, and faith, and love! Yes, I will see thee—see thee in thee thy infancy— It may be worth of mine may cause thy soul, And truth's braided light break in upon the darkness! Be firm my heart—and Thou bright Spirit, whose high throne Is in the Heaven of Heavens—Virtue! Descend! Give power to my words, And lead an erring wanderer back to thee!

Tribute to Lafayette.—When Lafayette was confined in the dungeons of Olmutz, by the voracity of Despotism—the celebrated German poet, Klopstock, published some reflections on his fate which concluded as follows:—

"Yet detested as he is by both extreme factions, proscribed by Robespierre at his club of Jacobins, inveighed against by Pitt; he still enjoys the consolation of knowing that his name is dear and respectable to the small number of real friends to liberty, whom the violence of faction has left in the world. The wise and illustrious Bernstorff applauds his virtues. The kindred soul of Kosciusko glows with indignation at his unmerited sufferings; the eloquent voices of Fox and Sheridan have been raised to load his persecutors with execration: and the heart of WASHINGTON himself, has bled for the hard fate of his fellow soldier in the cause of liberty."

Remarkable.—The packet South America, on her last arrival at this port, says the New York Gazette, brought the Liverpool Times, containing the following:—

Currents of the Atlantic Ocean.—On Tuesday last, a bottle, containing the following notice, was picked up on the Lancaster coast, near Southport:— "Thrown overboard from the packet ship South America, by the passengers, March, 1833, in the Gulf Stream, off Cape Cod, lat. 49 30, long. 68 W. The finder is earnestly requested to publish this in the nearest newspaper to which it may be found, to show the currents of the ocean, and oblige the passengers, as well as confer a benefit on science." It cannot be regarded as a singular circumstance, that this bottle, thrown into the Gulf Stream, off the United States of America, should have floated to within a few miles of the port in Europe from which the South America sailed, supposing her to have been on her outward passage, or to which she was sailing, supposing her to have been bound to Liverpool. A gale from the north, or a slight temporary change in the current, would have brought it into the Mersey, to the Captain of the South America, who probably saw it launched off Cape Cod.

SATURDAY, JAN. 31, 1834.

The City Ball.—The fête given last night at Brennan's Hotel, to the members of the legislature, and to celebrate the opening of the Rail Road from here to Frankfort, was truly a most brilliant affair. The company bestowed just praises on the taste and munificence of Mr. Brennan for the splendor and profusion of the supper and refreshments, which appeared as if "earth, sky, and sea" had been plundered of their sweets. The company must have numbered from four to five hundred persons, who were distributed in the various rooms of the basement story, where dancing parties were kept up till two o'clock. Like the Brussels ball, we too had gathered from the capital.

"Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
"The lamps shone over fair women and brave men;
"A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
"Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
"Soft eyes look'd love to eyes which spake again,
"And all went merry as a marriage bell."

A majority of the members of both branches of the legislature were present on the occasion it is said, together with the Mayor and Council of Lexington. For ourselves we did not play a part in the mazy dance, but was content to look on others.

"steer with care through all that glittering sea,
"Of gems and plumes and pearls and silks, to where
"He deems it is his proper place to be;
"Dismissing in the waltz to some soft air,
"Or proudly prancing with Mercutio's skill,
"Where science marshals forth her ownquad-
"drille."

RAIL ROAD.

An elegant new Locomotive of improved model, has been running on the Lexington and Ohio Rail Road for several days to Frankfort. The success which has attended the experiment thus far, equals the most sanguine hopes of the projectors. Since the application of steam, all doubts have been vanished—and we confess a very great change has been wrought on our own minds as to the utility and value of the undertaking. Its advantages to the town, are manifest now, and if it should be completed to Louisville, it will be an immense advantage to the whole commonwealth, and reflect the highest credit on those who have planned and executed it. Its superiority over every other kind of locomotion, will carry conviction to the minds of any who may doubt, and convince the country of the absolute necessity of completing it—to which purpose the legislature will no doubt, contribute largely.

The trips from here to Frankfort, will occupy about two hours when the arrangements are complete.

Glorious News.—Our intelligence from New Orleans announces the fact, that the faction which has so long governed Louisiana, against the known opinions of the people, is at last overthrown. This has been established recently by the election of a Senator in Congress for that state, and for Public Printer. On the 12th inst. CHARLES GAYARRI, Esq. was elected to the Senate of the United States for six years from the 4th of March, in the place of G. A. Waggaman.—Mr. G. is the personal and political friend of President Jackson.

In MAINE, John Ruggles, another democrat, has been elected to the Senate of the United States, in the place of Mr. Sprague. Mr. Ruggles had 108 votes—George Evans 64.

The day of reckoning comes round rather more rapidly with the Bank Senators than they imagined!

The Convention of the people of Missouri, has nominated MARTIN VAN BUREN for the Presidency and THOMAS H. BEXTON for the Vice Presidency. Mr. B. having declined the latter nomination, Missouri will insert the name of Colonel Johnson with equal pleasure.

ALBERT G. HARRISON, Esq. and Col. STROTHER, were nominated for Congress.

ROGER B. TANEY has been nominated by the President to supply the vacancy in the Supreme Court of the U. States, occasioned by the resignation of Judge Duvall, of Maryland.

The New York "Spirit of the Times" has been enlarged to a mammoth sheet, and is at present one of the most elegantly printed papers on the continent—embracing in its selections an immense variety of instructive articles of literary and miscellaneous character.

The Baltimore "Visitor," another sprightly paper of the same character, has passed into the hands of C. F. Cloud, Esq.

CIVIL ENGINEERING.

The professor of Mathematics in the Georgetown College (located at West Point) proposes to form a private Corps of Civil Engineers, as an appendage to the Mathematical Department. Students, entering the class will not be required to study any other branches than such as are necessary to qualify them for the business of an Engineer. The location of several roads through and near Georgetown, soon to be made, will afford favourable opportunities of making practical Engineers. Vacations, will be devoted to the practical part, of the course, the Professor himself attending the class, provided with suitable Instruments for surveying and leveling a Road or Canal.

Accident.—On Sunday evening last while the Rail Road car was returning from a short pleasure trip to the Villa, she experienced a sudden jerk, and "a change of direction, caused a considerable shock and great alarm; some of the passengers on the burden cars attempted to jump off—Those standing on the forward burden car, were, of course, most sensibly affected, having no safe guards; some were thrown backwards and knocked off those standing near the sides, under the wheels of the succeeding car and tender. But for a sloping bank at the point where the accident occurred, most probably, no serious accident would have been the consequence, for all seemed to clear the rails in jumping or falling off. Lewis Luskard of Lexington, reached the bank, and fell or rolled back under the hind wheel of the near car, which passed over and killed him, his body impeding the front wheel of the tender, and thus, with the instant action of the admirable engineer, preventing the loss of several lives. The engineer stopped the moment he saw the accident—quicker than a carriage, with horses, could have been halted—Leonard Taylor of Lexington, and Daniel Green of Fayette, had each a leg broken—Alexander Shidel and Samuel Long, Sen. of Lexington, W. A. Cooke and Joseph Holt of Springfield, were all thrown or knocked under the car by the sudden shock or by the multitude jumping out, and severely bruised.

THE COURT OF APPEALS.

We noticed in our last paper under the head of "Bargain and Intrigue," the resignation of Judge Underwood of the Court of Appeals, and the arrangement by which Mr. Ewing of Logan is to succeed him. At the last Congressional election in Kentucky, Mr. Ewing a distinguished lawyer of Logan County and a decided Jackson man, came within about forty votes of beating the Hon. Christopher Tompkins, the present representative of the district in which Underwood, Tompkins, and Ewing reside. The causes of the accidental success of Tompkins, and the superior strength and popularity of Ewing, are now so well known and so distinctly ascertained, that the party cannot risk Tompkins as their candidate at the next election. The Jackson men are determined to run Ewing again with entire confidence of success. Ewing has a penchant to be a candidate on the wig side; but his friends fear that Ewing will beat him, as he most assuredly would, from all the information which we have from that district. This state of things required an arrangement in the "bargain intrigue and management" party, which by the death of Governor Breathitt and the forms of law, have obtained the control of the state government. In this arrangement the co-operation of Governor Morehead became essential. Hence it has been concluded that Judge Underwood is to doff his robes and enter upon the canvass, with all the dignity and influence of recent authority and high office. It seems that in their hands the state government is to be so administered as to subserve not the interest of the people of Kentucky, but the unholy purpose of the Bank-rig-nullification opposition in the United States. If it were not to attain this object, Gov. Morehead would certainly never have thought of Mr. Ewing as a Judge of the Court of Appeals. There are fifty men in Kentucky much better qualified. Mr. Ewing may be a very decent, respectable man. He has doubtless been a very ardent partisan. But he has not the reputation of a profound jurist, and the experience in judicial proceedings, which should cause his selection for so very important and responsible an office as a Judge of the Supreme Court of the state. We have no disposition to assail the administration of the state government ungenerously. We wish to see Gov. Morehead take a fair and impartial course; and if by his acts he manifests such a disposition we will sustain him by our humble approbation. But we should be faithless to the people generally, as well as to that portion of them who support the democratic cause in the union, if we failed to denounce the unprincipled use made of the executive patronage in the state to promote the success of a heartless aristocracy.

Judge Underwood has been at Frankfort and resigned. The arrangement is made. It may be that the discovery of the plot will prevent its consummation. Nothing else will deprive us of the credit of being a prophet. But we venture another prophecy. Judge Underwood will never enjoy the fruit of this intrigue. Mr. Ewing will head him as certainly as he would have headed Mr. Ewing.

As a pretext for this arrangement it is said that the Governor thinks the Judge should be selected in the Green River country. This idea is ridiculous. Those very men who urge it, contended that we never had a better court of Appeals than when Boyle and Owsley lived near each other in Mercer and Lincoln, and Mills at Paris, and constituted the court of Appeals. The fact is it would be better that all the Judges of the Supreme Court should reside at or near the seat of government where they preside. If they study the cases which come before them thoroughly, and investigate the law applicable to them profoundly, and use the lamp in their libraries, and do not vainly rely upon their own self conceived wisdom, and capacity for off hand guessing, their whole time will be occupied in the discharge of their official duties. And the true principle upon which the Court of Appeals is constituted is that every case shall be heard, considered and decided, by the united minds of the whole court. But if they reside hundreds of miles apart, the Judges are compelled to adopt the practice of distributing the records among themselves, each one taking his share of cases, and one lot of cases is decided by one Judge, and another lot by another, and so on. It may be said that the Judges can decide the cases before they separate, and the task of writing the opinions is divided. But every lawyer knows the importance of the argumentative part of the decision of a court of ultimate resort and that in drafting the opinion, principles are frequently stated from which the deductions are drawn by one mind, which would be rejected by another coming to the same general conclusion. And a general conclusion is all that the judges can agree upon at the end of the term before they separate, if they go that far, which I believe they do not always, owing to the distance between the residences of the Judges, and their anxiety to get home. The litigants in the Court of Appeals have a right to expect that these causes will be deliberately examined, maturely considered, and cautiously determined by all the judges; and the community, that their opinions shall be so accurately expressed as to constitute safe guides to the inferior tribunals, and unerring precedents to future judges.

The idea that a judge of the Court of Appeals should be a judge for one section of the State more than another, is preposterous, and should not for a moment be entertained. The State is one and the court is one, and wherever a judge resides he is a judge for the whole community. The law is the same to him whether he resides North or South of the Kentucky river. The qualification of the individual should be the principal enquiry in his selection. His residence is a matter of decidedly secondary importance; because if he accepts the office in good faith with the intention of holding it, and of devoting himself to the discharge of its duties, he can change his residence so as to suit his own convenience, accommodate the wants of the community, and promote the dispatch and proper transaction of the public business.

In relation to supersedeas, very little is due to the facility of obtaining them in vacation. In all cases an appeal, which operates as a supersedeas, can be obtained, if applied for in proper time in the Circuit Courts. And applications for appeals are generally omitted with a view to try experiments upon the opinions of the Judges of the Court of Appeals—a practice not worthy of encouragement. Moreover supersedeas can only be obtained from the Clerk's Office of the Court of Appeals, and no great hardship results to litigants, who are compelled to come to Frankfort, any how, if they can find a judge at a reasonable distance from the Capital from whom to obtain the order.

Our advice to Gov. Morehead is to scorn all petty arrangements in the exercise of the highest power of his very dignified and responsible station; to look to the good of the community whose important interests are committed to his charge, to prostitute his high patronage to the promotion of no man's cause, whatever he may think of his talent as an orator, or his wisdom as a statesman, but to select from the whole body of the State, unrestricted by rivers or sections, or any such narrow little-minded views, and unbiased by party purposes, the man who has the greatest amount of legal knowledge, integrity, industry, business habits, experience in judicial proceedings, and public confidence. He will thus consult his own fame, and the good of the people who have elevated him to his high office. If however, by his subserviency he becomes the mere Governor or head of a party, he may thereby make himself a very useful instrument in the grand drama of national politics, but he will sink to the level of ordinary tools, and will never acquire the reputation of being an upright, impartial and independent chief magistrate.

Extract from a letter to the Editor of the Gazette, dated

New Lisbon, Ohio, Jan. 19.

"In your paper of the 10th inst. I noticed some pertinent and just remarks on the late humbug nomination of John McLean to the Presidency. The schemes which these self-constituted dictators are using, to decoy, distract, and defeat the Democratic party, are well known to you; but there are few residing out of the state, who are apprised of the fact, that the members comprising this junta, have ever been hostile to the political advancement of Judge McLean. The great design of this manifesto is emphatically to get Judge McLean's influence, and thus make catspaws of his friends—for this purpose they design to use his name for the present, until they can fix on one more popular with the party. As to McLean's strength in Ohio, you will be surprised, when I say, that he could not command five hundred votes separate from the Clay party—but it nevertheless is a fact.

The waters are in motion—Charles Hammond, the notorious Editor of the Cincinnati Gazette, is busily engaged in drilling the short haired gentry, and our friends may look out for a sudden eruption before long. No one who has observed the movements of the Clay faction in the Legislature—the secret manoeuvres held by the members—but what can foresee that a desperate effort will be made the coming fall election to crush democracy. Already have we had intimations of the fact in the shape of the manifesto above alluded to, and that they will rescind the resolutions, passed on the last session of the Legislature, I do not doubt. The signal of attack has already been given, and although we are in the minority, yet our Democratic members are true to this party, and will dispute every step towards usurpation. One fact is worthy of notice. In the House, the speaker, Mr. Creed, has taken a bold stand against the rights of members. When the motion was before that branch for repealing said resolutions, Mr. Creed decided that the Jackson members were out of order whenever they attempted to reply to the denunciations and bitter sarcasms of the whig faction, but Mr. Creed is to be pitied, rather than censured. He is a young man, of but little experience in Legislation, and the instrument of Thomas Ewing, the panic orator. This must account for the wild course pursued by him, and if I am not mistaken he will have to content himself hereafter with the word honorable attached to his name. More anon."

State Directors.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors this morning, Mr. John J. Jacob, was chosen President of the State Bank of Kentucky.

In the House of Representatives on the 23d inst. Mr. Woolley paid the subjoined compliment to our district attorney, Mr. J. Q. Harrison, which is very just:

"He was opposed to the course of legislation implied by that bill. It was interfering with the good feeling which should exist between our executive and the legislature. He disclaimed all private prejudice in the course he took upon the bill; there was no feeling of opposition governing him in relation to the incumbents of the office of Commonwealth's Attorney. He believed that he was acquainted personally with but two in the State, and those two were in every way qualified for the situations. He complimented in handsome terms the qualifications and character of the Attorney in Judge Hickey's district. He believed however, that individual prejudices governed many of the members in their votes on nearly all subjects of this character. He deprecated such a course of legislation in strong terms, and enlarged upon what he conceived to be the correct course in cases of this kind. The above is scarcely an outline of Mr. Woolley's remarks, but it may, perhaps, furnish the reader with a notion of what was said by him."

A Duel was fought yesterday in this neighborhood by Mr. Wise, of the House of Representatives, and Mr. Coke his predecessor in Congress. Mr. Coke was shot through the arm. The quarrel which led to this unpleasant result, we understand, arose in the course of the canvass between the parties two years ago. Mr. Coke was the challenger.—Globe.

On the 27th inst. the legislature of Delaware, in joint ballot, re-elected the Hon. Mr. CLAYTON, as U. S. Senator for six years from the 3d March next. We learn from the National Intelligencer that, previous to the election, "The members refused to accept the resignation of Mr. CLAYTON, which he had tendered, to take effect on the 13th, and the entire Whig delegation forthwith addressed him a letter on the subject, remonstrating against his retiring from his present situation in the strongest terms."

On Wednesday, Mr. Long introduced a string of resolutions into the House of Commons, condemning the course of the Administration, and of the Executive officers under it; but they were immediately laid on the table—there to sleep the sleep of death.—N. C. Standard.

The national road, throughout its whole length from Wheeling to Cumberland, is said to be now in fine order. As an evidence of it, the mail arrives here 5 or 6 hours before the stipulated time, coming from Baltimore 267 miles, in 50 hours.—Wheeling Gazette.

The undersigned would wish to allay the fears, not to apologise to Major Wood of Frankfort, for his great dismay on the morning of the 8th inst. We have been informed that he, supposing his arsenal had been assailed and his cannon stolen by the Jacksonians of Frankfort, ran, on hearing the first gun, in his dishabille, swearing vengeance and prosecution against the depredators,—when on arriving at the hill, he discovered in a such as he had not been accustomed to look upon—dreadfully attending to their duty—and that what he and his party had heretofore supposed impossible, had actually taken place, viz: that a few Jacksonian men, on the night of the 7th by a forced march, transported the cannon from Lexington, and at day-break on the 8th, raised the citizens of Frankfort to a sense of duty, that law or their Legislature had either neglected, or refused to attend to. Major Wood need have no fears—we have the means without ridding his arsenal—to stir up the pure minds of our Legislators by way of a remembrance of the 8th of January, 1815.
